

Northern Beaches Nature & Culture

Pristine views, aboriginal culture

Escape the hustle and bustle of the city, with a full day tour exploring Sydney's northern bushlands, beaches and waterways. This is a great chance to appreciate the exceptional nature and stunning views that lie right on Sydney's fringes, while exploring the incredible history and culture of aboriginal Sydney.

Travelling up to Ku-ring-gai Chase National Park, we feel a thousand miles away from the city amidst the pristine bushland and spectacular waterways of Pittwater, Akuna Bay and the Hawkesbury River. On the rocky outcrops we'll see rock engravings that date back hundreds of years, that tell the story of life for the aboriginal people of the area.

Lunch by the shores of Akuna Bay provides a peaceful backdrop, before the journey home mooching along via Sydney's stunning Northern Beaches, where sand, surf and views create an enviable and much-coveted lifestyle for the locals.
